

COME, GENTLEMEN.

You have for years BLACKLINED and UNDER-VALUED PURE WHOLESOME and BETTER BAKING POWDERS than your own—the "Royal." By black-lines, alleged "Government Chemists" who do not exist, and under the garb of "absolutely pure" you have forced into unsuspecting families a powder which contains the active drug AMMONIA. Eminent physicians and chemists condemn its use in articles of daily food. You cannot longer evade the issue, AMMONIA. The public will compel you to defend its use.

DO NOT TAKE OUR WORD FOR IT!

Every housekeeper can prove the truth of our statements by placing a can of the "Royal" top down, on a hot stove until heated, then remove the cover and smell "AMMONIA." This test will show that the "Royal" contains AMMONIA; that Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder does not contain Ammonia. The strength of our powder can be proven by the consumer's reliable test.

THE TEST OF THE OVEN.

In my opinion "DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER" IS SUPERIOR to the "Royal Baking Powder" IN EVERY RESPECT.

R. OGDEN DOREMUS, M.D., LL.D.,
Prof. of Chemistry and Toxicology in the "New York Bellevue Hospital Medical College."

Dated at Salt Lake City, June 20th, 1884.

HE TRAVELED.

He was a noble traveler
A drummer from New York,
Who never ate his pie unless
He did it with a fork.

One day he saw a pretty girl,
Upon the "Through Express,"
Who couldn't get the window up,
And seemed in sore distress.

"Ah, Miss, permit me," and he drew,
To help the fair young girl;
He fixed the window and began;
His face mustache to twirl.

And smiling like a son of Gaul
(The French are always sweet),
He asked if he could occupy
A portion of the seat.

He let him in—she sized him up—
She took her pretty fan,
And said to him in dulcet tones,
"Ain't you a traveling man?"

"Yes, Miss," he answered sweet and low,
And reached out for her fan.
"But is it such a g-j-j-j-j-j-j-j-j-j
To be a traveling man?"

"I reckon not," she made reply
"But father seems to think,
'Twixt bad and worse the traveler makes
The great connecting link."

"He's out there on the platform now,
And looking mighty blue.
So if you are a traveling man,
You'll travel p. d. q."

Mrs. Swishelm Dying.

Pittsburg, 22.—Jane Gray Swishelm, the noted abolitionist and advocate of female rights, is dying at her home, Sewickely, Pa. On Saturday, the 12th, she was taken ill, and since then has been growing steadily weaker, until last night she lost consciousness. Mrs. Swishelm was born in this city in 1815 and her life has been a most eventful one. For 40 years she has been a regular contributor for many leading newspapers of the country.

Sudden Death.

Chicago, 22.—A chambermaid rapped in vain for admission to a room in the Palmer House this morning, when the door was opened and the inmate found dead in his bed. From letters and papers in his possession his name was found to be Henry Hayman, of San Francisco. The body was taken to the morgue. Death is supposed to be from natural causes, as his health was apparently bad.

Happy End.

Quebec, 22.—John C. Eno rented a splendid furnished residence on St. John's street, and was joined by his wife and three daughters from New York.

Sargent for Congress.

Newburyport, 22.—Ex-minister Sargent has received a dispatch asking him to run for Congress in one of the California districts.

The Strike.

New York, 22.—About 700 bricklayers and 1,000 laborers are still on a strike.

White Elephants.

It is three hundred years since the Western world received the first extended account of the wonderful white elephant. This account came from an Englishman, named Fitch (who must have encountered great difficulties in travelling through Burmah at that time), and may be found in Hakluyt's quaint and famous "Collection of Navigations, Traffiques, and Discoveries." This tells us that at that time the King of Burmah had four white elephants, which were very strange and rare. It also records that if any other king had one, the Burmese king would send for it, and would rather lose part of his kingdom than not get it. The chronicle further tells us that when any white elephant was taken to the king, all the merchants of the city were commanded to visit it, upon which occasion each of them presented it with half a ducat. As there were a great many merchants, this made a good round sum. At that time, the white elephant stood in the king's house, and received great honor and service. Each of them had an apartment of its own, decorated with golden ornaments, and ate its food from golden and silver vessels. Every day, when they went to the river to bathe, canopies of silk or cloth of gold were held over them, and drums, clarionets, or other instruments accompanied them. As they came out of the river, each had a gentleman in waiting to wash its feet in a silver basin, an officer being appointed for that honor by the king. The black elephants were not so well treated. They were evidently regarded as the canaille, though some of them were very handsome and fully nine cubits, or thirteen and a half feet high.—[The Mombalun.
